

Final CCCRA Friday concert of the season tomorrow

Submitted Article

Victoria Ewing Ware, Guest Writer

The 2021 CCCRA Friday Summer Concert Series on the square in Hayesville, winds up tomorrow night with perennial favorite Gnarly Fingers taking the gazebo stage at 7pm.

This acoustic band specializing in three-part harmony, guarantees an entertaining evening, playing tunes familiar to us all, while sprinkling in a few of their original tunes. If history repeats, by the end of the night, the audience will be on their feet dancing, singing, and asking for more.

As they have all season, downtown Hayesville's own brewpub Nocturnal Brewing Company, will be offering craft beers, wine, and a delicious special menu. Help us support this local business and note that carrying-in of alcoholic beverages is prohibited by NC law.

The free CCCRA Friday Summer Concert Series is made possible with sponsorships from private individuals, businesses, and organizations. Importantly, CCCRA relies heavily on concert-night donations to the "red buckets" to sustain the annual concert series. The amount raised helps determine the number of concerts for next year, and the quality of artists we bring to the stage. Your generosity is appreciated.

Music gets underway at 7pm, with food and beverage service starting at 6pm. Load up your friends and family, your favorite chairs, and join CCCRA and Gnarly Fingers on the Square Friday.